Hotel Register Patent.
Sr. Lours, March 28.—In 1867 Charlos
L. Hawes obtained a patent on the inclusion between the writing leaves of a hotel register of a blotting leaf, the latter being decorated with advertisements.
He had some trouble in maintaining this patent in couris, but secured at length
avorable decisions, and afterwards sold State rights for the vending and use of ins "invention" to various persons. The lavonable decisions, and afterwards sold late rights for the vending and use of his "favention" to various persons. The James T. Hair company obtained possession of the right to vend and use in several of the Western States, and recently instituted a suit on the law side of the United States Circuit Court against H. D. Blies, proprietor of the Part Hesel, w. Humbel, Micsonil, for infringing on their rights on the monopoly of the district purchased, claiming $5,000 damages. Yesterlay the case was heard before Judge Treat and a jury. The hearing was not very full before the judge put an end to the proceeding by instructing the jury to return a verifict for the defendant. The plaintiff, however, took a nonsuit, to preserve the right to see again. Judge Treat was very vigorous in his remarks on the frivolity of the patent. He said there was neither invention or novelty in it. The simple combination of two well-known articles in common use would not be called an invention, and, considering the multiplicity of devices patented which served only to harass the commercial world, if was time for the United States courts to limit patents to the extent prescribed by the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was not just to the peace the patent law, It was the common the patent law, It was the patent law, It was the patent law and the patent law.

FITCH ON IMMORTALITY.

The following is the parentian of Hon. Thomas Fitch's lecture entitled "The Invisible Police:"

"In the interests of social order, in the interests of a government of law, in the interests of a government of law, in the interests of a government of law, in the interests of liberty and property, it is necessary that the general belief of mankind in a Supreme intelligence and a life beyond the grave should not be taken away. If materialism is a truth, we may as well strike such words as scriftee and 'integrity and unselfishness from our vocabularies. If there is no life hereafter, no moral accountability and considered, no moral accountability and considered, no moral accountability and other life as moosbeams come through rifts in the darkening cloud, if all these are but sounding phrases invented by priests and used by politicians, then why should not overy man help himself to whatever may contribute to his confort without regard to the rights of others? There is surely another life than that of earth. Those whe have gone before will live in our conclosusness, though no more living in the death has not a radian children of the shooth has not a shoot

LIVERPOOL BILL.

(Dan De Quille, in San Francisco Post.)
Said "Livergool Bill" to the premoinitory symptom of a hocolism to whom he was giving a lesson in the rolling of a cigarette. Young feller, I stypes now as disparente. Young feller, I stypes down to go young feller. That's the lay I'm on. Say to yourself the world owes me a livin', and I'm bound to 'avit. That air's the motto to live up to. To live without care is my philosophy. All else wanity. Behold the lilies of the walley, as tolis not and doesn't spin.

"Wot does a man git for makin' inventions and the like? Nothink! Wot does a man git for makin' discoveries?
Nothink! Look at Christopher Columbus, young man, and let his fate be a warnty held into a diungeon. He gits called a swindler and an imposture. Now they're found out that he didn't discover America arter all. So he had all his trouble for nothink. Hit vas some Laplander feller up north that discovered the country, and he don't git any credit, for nobody has yit been found what can pernomee his name.

"Wet does William H. Shakespeare

"See the life ole Cruoco led in that air solitary island! and now they say there never was no Cruoco. His repertation is taken from him, oven when we know it says in the hymn book, 'tle was monarch of all he surveyed.'

"He's been found out that the story of Capitain John P. Smith and Miss Folka Hontas was all a myth inwented by ole William Penn to give a sample of good Injuns.' And see now, after Richard M. Johnson went out and killed ele Tecumsch, they say he was shot with an 'oss pistol by ole Tippecance, and R. M. bein' dead he can't git up and skow the skelp. Also, here's ole Geronimo; after he's gone and got up a repertation as Geronimo, somebody'll find out he's somebody else—a cased half-breed, like enough.

"There ain't no maclatrom, and the Mahii is a Hirishman. George Washington else a cased half-breed, like enough."

"There is a Hirishman. George Washington ever head no little hatchet, and he didn't cut no cherry tree; so, as a matter of course, he didn't not be burnin' deck, 'as we're told he did, he was the biggest fool boy! e'ser heard on. If there was any deck about hit, hit was a cold deck."

Now, young man, don't you for the discover heard on. If there was any deck about hit, hit was a cold deck.

"Now, young man, don't you as a matter of course, he didn't out be burnin' deck, as we're told he did, he was the biggest fool boy! e'ser heard on. If there was any deck about hit, hit was a cold deck.

Beecher says there ain't no dec both of, 'om says there ain't no bell, as for the 'halm in Gilead,' I say to yo that you can put all there is of it in you eye, young feller. Take my advice, at least the life of a philosopher; git all you can out of the world and never do noth for the world, then you heat the world, then you heat the world, then you heat the world are a true philosopher. Bear mind that:
